

Bitpalast® "Shopping Cart" web design module

Online shop systems are expensive, difficult to set up, and almost always require you to rent a costly web server with database. Do you really need an expensive shop system with all the trimmings for the small range of items your customers can buy online? The Bitpalast® "Shopping Cart" web design module not only saves you money in terms of the expensive shop system, but also the follow-on costs for data maintenance, which also tend to be high.

The Bitpalast® "Shopping Cart" web design module even enables your customers to surf faster than in traditional shop systems as there is no loading time for database queries. This makes shopping easier for the customer. Your customers can collect items in the shopping cart, enter the amount, and submit the order more quickly and easily. Shortly afterwards you receive the transaction data via e-mail. This all operates without cookies, meaning it can also be used by customers who have strict security policies. With the Bitpalast® "Shopping Cart" web design module, you can maintain an unlimited number of items. Each item can have an unlimited number of diverse features. You enter the item's features quickly and easily into an HTML page (which is as easy as typing a letter in Word). You can add, modify, and delete items just as you add, modify and delete web pages.

- ✓ Each item can be integrated into any HTML page and placed in the shopping cart from there
- ✓ Custom, item-specific presentation of items
- ✓ Unlimited number of items with unlimited product features and unlimited images, movies, audio samples etc.
- ✓ Shopping cart page with item and grand totals, quantity selection updated automatically whenever the customer changes the item quantity
- ✓ Server response page ("Thank you for your order!" etc.)
- ✓ Works without database and cookies and can be operated on virtually any web server & all common browsers
- ✓ Eliminates high web server follow-up costs
- ✓ Items can be added, modified, and deleted as easily as normal web pages
- ✓ Free technical support from personally designated Bitpalast® technicians
