

Bitpalast® Hosting Reseller Server

Become a web-space provider for your customers!

Do you design websites and need a platform on which you can operate your customers' websites? Do you want to offer your customers a "one-stop" solution and provide web-hosting services? The Bitpalast® Reseller Server is your ideal way into the web-hosting business. You get a flexible platform on which you can realize practically any of your customers' wishes.

The server can be branded with your name e.g. the welcome message of the FTP service. You appear to all intents and purposes to be a "genuine" web-space provider. Also, your end customers receive Bitpalast® support in your name.

- ✓ An unlimited¹ number of domains, control panel, statistics and more...
You can assign any number of customer accounts on the server and operate each domain in a separate storage area with its own login, FTP access, database, PHP, Perl, individual statistics, and more.
 - ✓ Premium support for you and your end customers!
For all domain names that are booked via Bitpalast® we provide you with a neutral telephone number to our support service which we answer as "This is your online service". You can publicize this number as "your" technical support number or automatically forward calls to it. Bitpalast® provides your end customers with technical support for all common technical configuration tasks and issues in your name. Your customers have no idea that your service is actually provided by Bitpalast® experts. As we know our servers very well, your end customers receive first class service, which has a positive effect on your reputation as a web-space provider.
 - ✓ Scalable size
If you run out of storage space on your Reseller Server, you can upgrade to a larger server. All data is retained! Everything runs seamlessly as before!
 - ✓ Fully budgetable through free price and performance structuring.
You can provide any combination of features. You decide what price you charge your end customers. You simply pay a fixed and very cost-effective monthly server rental to Bitpalast® that includes support both for yourself and your end customers.
 - ✓ Risk-free market entry and affordable reseller prices
Not only are you offered favorable prices on the Reseller Server, but you also get discounts on other Bitpalast® services. And you also gain a risk-free entry to the web-hosting market. You may not yet know whether you will attract enough customers for the Reseller Server to be worthwhile. To retain your reseller status, you must operate at least two Reseller Servers from the second year of operation. In the first year, however, you receive the full range of Bitpalast® Reseller services even if you rent just one Reseller Server. It is not the end of the world if you do not rent a second Reseller Server from the second year. All your configurations and data are retained and you can rent your server as a Bitpalast® Small Enterprise Server on the standard Bitpalast® end-customer terms.

You can book the Bitpalast® Reseller Server for a year at a time. The notice period is eight weeks to the end of the operating year. If you do not give notice, the rental period is automatically extended by a further year. The monthly server rental is debited from your account conveniently and simply on the first of each month. You are not required to pay for the year in advance.
